THE STATE RIFLE AND REVOLVER COMPETITIONS OF 1912

The State Rifle and Revolver Competitions of 1912 have become a thing of the past and are now history. It was thought best to try this year an earlier date than usual and the ten days beginning with June 17 were selected. One result was an absence of the intensely hot weather which is usually to be found at the State Rifle Range during the month of August. The days and nights were comfortable and although rain fell at times it at no time interfered with the shooting, which was completed on scheduled time.

SERGEANT FREDERICK T. REPP, WINNER OF THE GOVERNOR'S MATCH.

Several radical changes were made this year, the most notable being the introduction of Surprise Fire in all competitions in the place of rapid fire. In this Pennsylvania was making history. Surprise Fire had never before been used in competitions, having only been inserted in the national match this year. Another radical change was the elimination of the 200-yard stage from all matches for senior teams and the introducing of the 1,000 stage into the Bradley match, making it absolutely necessary for regimental teams to be able to handle this range if they desire or expect to be successful.

The Long Range Match, which heretofore has been shot by teams of four men at 800 and 1,000 yards, has been made a match for teams of eight, shooting at the 1,000-yard range only.

The Tenth Infantry team repeated its performance of 1911 and carried off nearly all the trophies, capturing five and only losing a sixth because of the infraction of rules by one of its members, reported by Captain Cook, who was in charge of the team and who promptly withdrew his team from the match in order that there might be no misunderstanding.

This year's matches developed the fact that there are some excellent shots coming on among the new material. Many of the old shots were among the missing, but the scores were generally as good as in former years. Among those who are no longer in the Guard are Gamble and Dunn, of the First, and Slopey, of the Twelfth, old State team men, while Sweeting, of the Sixteenth, was unable to attend.

A new champion shot appeared this year in the person of First Sergeant Frederick T. Repp, Company M, Ninth Infantry, who captured the coveted medal after one of the warmest contests in its history. When firing began at the 1,000-yard stage, the final stage of the match, it was possible for any one of a dozen men to win out, so close were the competitors. This is the first time this medal has been won in the Ninth Infantry.

The revolver competitions this year became real competitions, all competitors being required to shoot their scores between 9 A. M. and 4 P. M. of the same day instead of having the whole ten days in which to select the best possible conditions. The expert and enlisted men's matches were carried off by Sergeant Charles A. Kline, of the Governor's Troop, and the Officers' medal by Captain George H. Smith, Inspector of Small Arms Practice of the Third Infantry.

The winners of the matches were as follows:

The Cavalry Cups.

The Cavalry trophies were awarded this year for the first time since squadron teams were established. The Cavalry Cup went to the First Squadron for making the highest score of the two squadrons in the regimental match. The Cavalry Skirmish Cup was won by the Second Squadron by making high score in the skirmish match.

LIEUTENANT COLONEL J. WARNER HUTCHINS.

Lieutenant Colonel J. Warner Hutchins is one of Philadelphia's most representative citizens. Colonel Hutchins is the son of Lewis S. and Marcia M. Hutchins, and was born at Montpelier, Vermont, in 1855; he was in the city ever since. Colonel Hutchins came of military stock, Parley Hutchins and Justus Warner Aiken, his two grandfathers, having served with the American forces against the British in the War of 1812. Colonel Hutchins was educated in the public schools of Philadelphia, and is a graduate of the Central High School. In 1875, when only twenty years of age, he became active in the jewelry trade. In 1884, at the age of twenty-nine years, he established the business in his own name, which has since become so well known. Colonel Hutchins has been an extensive traveler, and has visited practically every civilized country on the globe. Colonel Hutchins is an ardent Mason, has taken his thirty-second degree, and is Grand Marshal of the Grand Lodge F. and A. M. of Pennsylvania. Colonel Hutchins is prominent in the Mystic Shrine as well. Among other organizations which claim his attention are the Union League, Pennsylvania Historical Society, Jewelers' Club, the New England Society of Philadelphia and the Fourteenth Ward Union Republican Club. He is a vestryman and also member of the Men's Club of the Protestant Episcopal Church of St. Jude and the Nativity. He is likewise active in the Cape May Yacht Club and the Wishbone Club. Colonel Hutchins is vice-president of the Pennsylvania Retail Jewelers' Association, and a member of the Board of Trade of Philadelphia.

One of the things that has greatly interested him in foreign countries is penal management. He has visited many prisons abroad and made an intelligent study of comparisons with the management of the county prison in Philadelphia, with which he has been connected as an inspector for ten years.

He has made a study of many local criminals during confinement, and has an occasional opportunity of watching the course of some of them after they are free.

He finds the subject an absorbing one from the strong human interest that surrounds it, and says from the standpoint of cleanliness and discipline, Philadelphia has nothing to hide in its prison management.

The office of Prison Inspectors is about the only exception to Colonel Hutchins' indifference to holding public positions. Colonel Hutchins declined the appointment of supervisor of census in Philadelphia in 1910.

During the term of Governor Edwin S. Stuart, he served as an aide-de-camp on his staff and re-appointed by Governor John K. Tener. Recently Colonel Hutchins was appointed Deputy Commissary General.

A clock at Division Headquarters will keep the official time.

The first call only of each series will be sounded once from Brigade Headquarters. Upon completion of the last note, the call will be repeated at the headquarters of each regiment and attached organization and the subsequent calls will be sounded as specified herein.

The roll will be called at reveille and retreat, and each unit inspected by one of its officers. Retreat will be under arms.

One regiment, in order of seniority, will parade daily at Brigade Headquarters; other parades are at the discretion of the commanding officers. Guard Mount in the designated regiment will follow parade.

The senior officer of camps containing mounted organizations will issue orders for sounding stable and water calls.

Governor's Day and Annual Inspection in any brigade or other separate camps will vacate for that day such parts of the program as the camp commander considers necessary.

Tactical walks will follow afternoon drills after fifteen minutes intermission.

Classes for sketching may be formed otherwise than by company at the discretion of regimental commanders.

At close of forenoon problems, officers will be assembled on the field for discussion of the exercise, troops being marched to camp by non-commissioned officers.

Infantry details for guard and provost duty will be by company units. From each brigade and other separate camp guard detail two full squads, one sergeant and one commissioned officer will be sent daily, immediately after guard mounting, to the Provost Marshal's quarters at Gettysburg. Brigade and separate camp commanders will determine strength of their interior guards. The total guard and provost detail from each camp should not, under ordinary circumstances, exceed one company.

II. A consolidated morning report for each brigade and separate organization will be sent to Division Headquarters before 9 A. M. daily.

III. Permission for members of the command to leave camp at times other than those designated for duty, will be given at the discretion of the commanders of regiments, evidenced by written pass.

Only in exceptional cases will members be excused from duty. When enlisted men are so excused, it will be on a written pass granted by the regimental or separate organization commander, a list of passes issued being furnished the Brigade Commander and for auxiliary troops to the Division Commander.

Members of the command leaving camp will be required to be in complete uniform without side arms, and to keep themselves neat and soldierly in appearance. Enlisted men may dispense with the blouse if they wear the regulation shirt, buttoned at the neck and sleeves.

Enlisted men are forbidden to enter the orchards, yards or houses of civilians except by special permission of the owner.

IV. The Commanding General will receive officers on official business at 7.15 P. M., when one officer from each brigade and separate camp will report. An officer from each regiment and separate organization will report to the Chief of Staff daily at 7.15 P. M. Department officers on duty with the division will receive officers having similar duties in the respective organizations at 8.00 P. M. daily. The Division Quartermaster and Division Commissary will arrange for the attendance of Regimental Quartermasters and Commissaries.

It is intended by these conferences to minimize paper work. Officers reporting will bring the correspondence of their commands requiring attention to headquarters. They will receive the orders for the following day, and in each department, and at the Commanding General's Headquarters will discuss the work done and yet to be done.

V. Leaks or other wastage in the water system will be at once reported to the Division Quartermaster.

VI. Brigade and separate camp commanders will arrange daily sanitary inspections of their whole camp in addition to the morning and evening sanitary inspection to be made by regimental and separate organization surgeons. A daily sanitary report of these inspections will be furnished the Chief Surgeon of the division through the Division Adjutant General.

Organization commanders are responsible for the police of their camps. They will construct kitchen incinerators for the disposal of solid and liquid garbage of their organizations, and no other disposal will be made thereof. Sanitary labor will be employed by the Quartermaster's Department and turned over to the Medical Department, to care for the latrines, which will be disinfected daily. The expense of the sanitary labor will be divided between the respective organizations and may be made a disbursement from annual allowance funds. Two urinal cans will be placed in each company street at dusk and designated with a lantern. They will be burned out daily and bottoms covered with lime, and be kept whitewashed or coated with slacked lime. Defilement of the ground in and about the camp is absolutely prohibited. At night each latrine will be lighted by a lantern.

Scrupulous cleanliness of everything pertaining to the mess will be maintained. Cooks must be clean and neat in person. Food will be protected from flies by wire or cotton screening or by covering with clean cloths.

Company commanders will require their men to wash their hands before eating.

A box frame, filled with stones, will be sunk beneath each water tap to take up the overflow.

A bench for wash basins will be placed at a convenient point near each company water tap.

All water on the manoeuver grounds, except that piped to the camp, should be regarded as unsafe for drinking purposes, unless a sign placed nearby indicates its purity.

Manure, camp wastes and sweepings of all kinds will be promptly removed and disposed of.

VII. An assignment of drill and exercise areas for organizations will be made by the Division Comander upon arrival of organizations at camp.

VIII. The following officers of the Medical Department, and the number of enlisted men detailed below from the Hospital Corps of the several organizations, will report to the Chief Surgeon of the Division immediately upon arrival in camp, for duty at the Field Hospital to be established:

For the first time in the history of the Division, the organized militia will have but few visitors at its camp this year. This condition is due to the fact that the troops will not spend a Sunday, as heretofore, under canvas. They will leave for the field on one Sunday and return on the following. The new move is an excellent one and deserving of commendation, as it gives the troops six full days for work, and the one day, formerly given over to the entertainment, will be omitted. The camp at Gettysburg will be known as Camp Edwin S. Stuart, in honor of the much esteemed former Governor of the State.

General Hulings is being congratulated, and with good cause, for the successful termination of the first period of the joint manoeuvers of the organized militia and troops from the regular establishment at Mt. Gretna. The Second Brigade, consisting of the Tenth, Sixteenth and Eighteenth Regiments of Infantry, participated for the first time in a joint manoeuvre camp of instruction. The problems were worked out to the satisfaction of the army officers present, who as usual were well impressed with the Pennsylvania Guardsmen. The hot spell was at its height during the time of the camp, but it was a remarkable showing that while a few were overcome by the torrid conditions, yet nothing of a serious nature happened. Without doubt, the field hospital did excellent work in attending to the heat cases, and the system of medical supervision is deserving of the highest praise. The sanitary conditions of the Sixteenth Pennsylvania were, as usual, of the best type, and the attention of the regulars was called to the provisions made to safeguard the health of the militiamen. The sanitary conditions of the camps of the Tenth and Eighteenth Pennsylvania were also good. All told, the tour of duty has been a great success.

Major General Dougherty can well be congratulated upon the completion of his handsome new home on the banks of the Susquehanna river overlooking the beautiful Wyoming Valley. The house is a magnificent dwelling, with splendid exterior, and equipped along most modern lines. The home is of colonial architecture, constructed with a view to both substantiability and elegance. It is 44 feet wide by 70 feet depth and has three stories. The interior is finished in mahogany, oak and chestnut, with hardwood flooring throughout. The home suggests comfort in every detail and is ideal in every respect. It was built by the well known firm of John Curtis & Co., Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

The accompanying photograph shows the members of the Petty Officers' Association of Divisions A and B, Naval Force of Pennsylvania, an organization formed for the purpose of fostering a friendly spirit between the non-commissioned officers of the Reserve stationed in Philadelphia, and of enabling them to discuss various topics of interest to the members of this particular branch of the National Guard. Meetings are held bi-monthly at headquarters, 314 Parkway Building. The present officers are: William Shute, Boatswain's Mate, First-class, President, and Herbert D. Glass, Chief Machinist's Mate, Secretary and Treasurer.

NOTES

Several changes in the Naval Force of the Western Division are expected owing to removals of officers on account of professional duties. Captain Morrison is confident, however, that with the fine material which he has held in reserve that the force will be in no way impaired by the prospective retirements.

Captain Thomas L. Kane, formerly of Company E, Sixteenth Infantry, has been transferred to the Medical Corps. Surgeon General Joseph K. Weaver has given his approval to the transfer. Captain Kane is a physician of standing in the northwestern section of the State, and is expected to sustain his record of proficiency as a company commander was one of the very best in the Guard.

Much interest has been manifested by the citizens of Greensburg in the excellent showing made by the team of the Tenth Regiment in the recent State matches. The trophies won have been on exhibition in one of the leading department stores of the city and the men of the team have been lionized by the residents of the Westmoreland county seat.

Guardsmen of Pennsylvania and New York are much interested in a small joint manoeuvre, which is being arranged by Lieutenant Colonel Burns, of the Sixteenth Infantry, between Company C, of that command, Captain Schoonmaker, and Company I, of the Third New York, Captain Newell. The companies are stationed respectively at Bradford, Pa., and Olean, N. Y., within a short distance of each other. The companies have fraternized several times together, notably in competitive rifle matches at Rock City, where it is expected the joint manoeuvre will take place.

Great progress is being made towards the completion of the new State Armory at Bradford, which will be occupied by Company C, Sixteenth Infantry. Captain F. P. Schoonmaker is planning to make the dedication of the Armory a great event in the history of Bradford and it is expected that Governor Tener and the members of his staff will participate in the exercises. Companies E, H, and I, of the Sixteenth Infantry, and Company I, of the Third New York, will be invited to be present.

Through the courtesy of Major Charles D. Rhoades, Ordnance Officer of the Fourth Brigade, we are enabled to give the individual scores of the Regimental teams in the recent competition for the "Fuller Trophy."

Photographs of the Instruction and Rifle Camps, in this issue, are by Harpel, Lebanon, Pa.

NEW DRILL REGULATIONS FOR THE NAVY.

The "Landing Force and Small Arms Instructions, 1912," recently published by the Navy Department, will soon be issued to the fleet, and will create several notable changes in the manner of drilling the bluejackets. The Manual of Guard-mounting and Guard-duty is taken from U. S. Army publications with certain omissions and necessary changes. The Extended Order and Combat is copied from the Infantry Drill Regulations, U. S. Army, 1911. The Infantry Drill Regulations, U. S. Army, 1911, have been modified in several instances rendered necessary by naval conditions. All the principals of the Army Drill Regulations have been followed except that no interval is left between the files in ranks, because of the restricted space on board ship. The light touch of the elbows is preserved, which makes the distance between ranks 36 inches.

Changes in the Navy Manual of Arms and the facings, and some other minor details, not essential to practical uniformity in co-operating with the army, have been avoided for manifest reasons.

The first edition of this book, published in 1905, was very carefully prepared with special attention to the condition and needs of the Navy; and the principle was then established that the Navy should follow the Army in all fighting formations and other strictly practical and important matters, but that frequent changes in trivial things, such as the facing, the manual of arms, etc., should be avoided. To use the words of the Army Regulations, "Quibbling over the minutiae of form is indicative of a failure to grasp the spirit."

Several copies of the 1912 edition have been obtained by the officers of the Naval Force of Pennsylvania, from Annapolis, (where the new regulations have been in force for a little over a month), and the enlisted men are now being instructed in the changes from the old system.

THE STATE RIFLE AND REVOLVER COMPETITIONS OF 1912

The State Rifle and Revolver Competitions of 1912 have become a thing of the past and are now history. It was thought best to try this year an earlier date than usual and the ten days beginning with June 17 were selected. One result was an absence of the intensely hot weather which is usually to be found at the State Rifle Range during the month of August. The days and nights were comfortable and although rain fell at times it at no time interfered with the shooting, which was completed on scheduled time.

SERGEANT FREDERICK T. REPP, WINNER OF THE GOVERNOR'S MATCH.

Several radical changes were made this year, the most notable being the introduction of Surprise Fire in all competitions in the place of rapid fire. In this Pennsylvania was making history. Surprise Fire had never before been used in competitions, having only been inserted in the national match this year. Another radical change was the elimination of the 200-yard stage from all matches for senior teams and the introducing of the 1,000 stage into the Bradley match, making it absolutely necessary for regimental teams to be able to handle this range if they desire or expect to be successful.

The Long Range Match, which heretofore has been shot by teams of four men at 800 and 1,000 yards, has been made a match for teams of eight, shooting at the 1,000-yard range only.

The Tenth Infantry team repeated its performance of 1911 and carried off nearly all the trophies, capturing five and only losing a sixth because of the infraction of rules by one of its members, reported by Captain Cook, who was in charge of the team and who promptly withdrew his team from the match in order that there might be no misunderstanding.

This year's matches developed the fact that there are some excellent shots coming on among the new material. Many of the old shots were among the missing, but the scores were generally as good as in former years. Among those who are no longer in the Guard are Gamble and Dunn, of the First, and Slopey, of the Twelfth, old State team men, while Sweeting, of the Sixteenth, was unable to attend.

A new champion shot appeared this year in the person of First Sergeant Frederick T. Repp, Company M, Ninth Infantry, who captured the coveted medal after one of the warmest contests in its history. When firing began at the 1,000-yard stage, the final stage of the match, it was possible for any one of a dozen men to win out, so close were the competitors. This is the first time this medal has been won in the Ninth Infantry.

The revolver competitions this year became real competitions, all competitors being required to shoot their scores between 9 A. M. and 4 P. M. of the same day instead of having the whole ten days in which to select the best possible conditions. The expert and enlisted men's matches were carried off by Sergeant Charles A. Kline, of the Governor's Troop, and the Officers' medal by Captain George H. Smith, Inspector of Small Arms Practice of the Third Infantry.

The winners of the matches were as follows:

LIEUTENANT COLONEL J. WARNER HUTCHINS.

Lieutenant Colonel J. Warner Hutchins is one of Philadelphia's most representative citizens. Colonel Hutchins is the son of Lewis S. and Marcia M. Hutchins, and was born at Montpelier, Vermont, in 1855; he was in the city ever since. Colonel Hutchins came of military stock, Parley Hutchins and Justus Warner Aiken, his two grandfathers, having served with the American forces against the British in the War of 1812. Colonel Hutchins was educated in the public schools of Philadelphia, and is a graduate of the Central High School. In 1875, when only twenty years of age, he became active in the jewelry trade. In 1884, at the age of twenty-nine years, he established the business in his own name, which has since become so well known. Colonel Hutchins has been an extensive traveler, and has visited practically every civilized country on the globe. Colonel Hutchins is an ardent Mason, has taken his thirty-second degree, and is Grand Marshal of the Grand Lodge F. and A. M. of Pennsylvania. Colonel Hutchins is prominent in the Mystic Shrine as well. Among other organizations which claim his attention are the Union League, Pennsylvania Historical Society, Jewelers' Club, the New England Society of Philadelphia and the Fourteenth Ward Union Republican Club. He is a vestryman and also member of the Men's Club of the Protestant Episcopal Church of St. Jude and the Nativity. He is likewise active in the Cape May Yacht Club and the Wishbone Club. Colonel Hutchins is vice-president of the Pennsylvania Retail Jewelers' Association, and a member of the Board of Trade of Philadelphia.

One of the things that has greatly interested him in foreign countries is penal management. He has visited many prisons abroad and made an intelligent study of comparisons with the management of the county prison in Philadelphia, with which he has been connected as an inspector for ten years.

He has made a study of many local criminals during confinement, and has an occasional opportunity of watching the course of some of them after they are free.

He finds the subject an absorbing one from the strong human interest that surrounds it, and says from the standpoint of cleanliness and discipline, Philadelphia has nothing to hide in its prison management.

The office of Prison Inspectors is about the only exception to Colonel Hutchins' indifference to holding public positions. Colonel Hutchins declined the appointment of supervisor of census in Philadelphia in 1910.

During the term of Governor Edwin S. Stuart, he served as an aide-de-camp on his staff and re-appointed by Governor John K. Tener. Recently Colonel Hutchins was appointed Deputy Commissary General.

The roll will be called at reveille and retreat, and each unit inspected by one of its officers. Retreat will be under arms.

One regiment, in order of seniority, will parade daily at Brigade Headquarters; other parades are at the discretion of the commanding officers. Guard Mount in the designated regiment will follow parade.

The senior officer of camps containing mounted organizations will issue orders for sounding stable and water calls.

Governor's Day and Annual Inspection in any brigade or other separate camps will vacate for that day such parts of the program as the camp commander considers necessary.

Tactical walks will follow afternoon drills after fifteen minutes intermission.

Classes for sketching may be formed otherwise than by company at the discretion of regimental commanders.

At close of forenoon problems, officers will be assembled on the field for discussion of the exercise, troops being marched to camp by non-commissioned officers.

Infantry details for guard and provost duty will be by company units. From each brigade and other separate camp guard detail two full squads, one sergeant and one commissioned officer will be sent daily, immediately after guard mounting, to the Provost Marshal's quarters at Gettysburg. Brigade and separate camp commanders will determine strength of their interior guards. The total guard and provost detail from each camp should not, under ordinary circumstances, exceed one company.

II. A consolidated morning report for each brigade and separate organization will be sent to Division Headquarters before 9 A. M. daily.

III. Permission for members of the command to leave camp at times other than those designated for duty, will be given at the discretion of the commanders of regiments, evidenced by written pass.

Only in exceptional cases will members be excused from duty. When enlisted men are so excused, it will be on a written pass granted by the regimental or separate organization commander, a list of passes issued being furnished the Brigade Commander and for auxiliary troops to the Division Commander.

Members of the command leaving camp will be required to be in complete uniform without side arms, and to keep themselves neat and soldierly in appearance. Enlisted men may dispense with the blouse if they wear the regulation shirt, buttoned at the neck and sleeves.

Enlisted men are forbidden to enter the orchards, yards or houses of civilians except by special permission of the owner.

IV. The Commanding General will receive officers on official business at 7.15 P. M., when one officer from each brigade and separate camp will report. An officer from each regiment and separate organization will report to the Chief of Staff daily at 7.15 P. M. Department officers on duty with the division will receive officers having similar duties in the respective organizations at 8.00 P. M. daily. The Division Quartermaster and Division Commissary will arrange for the attendance of Regimental Quartermasters and Commissaries.

It is intended by these conferences to minimize paper work. Officers reporting will bring the correspondence of their commands requiring attention to headquarters. They will receive the orders for the following day, and in each department, and at the Commanding General's Headquarters will discuss the work done and yet to be done.

V. Leaks or other wastage in the water system will be at once reported to the Division Quartermaster.

VI. Brigade and separate camp commanders will arrange daily sanitary inspections of their whole camp in addition to the morning and evening sanitary inspection to be made by regimental and separate organization surgeons. A daily sanitary report of these inspections will be furnished the Chief Surgeon of the division through the Division Adjutant General.

Organization commanders are responsible for the police of their camps. They will construct kitchen incinerators for the disposal of solid and liquid garbage of their organizations, and no other disposal will be made thereof. Sanitary labor will be employed by the Quartermaster's Department and turned over to the Medical Department, to care for the latrines, which will be disinfected daily. The expense of the sanitary labor will be divided between the respective organizations and may be made a disbursement from annual allowance funds. Two urinal cans will be placed in each company street at dusk and designated with a lantern. They will be burned out daily and bottoms covered with lime, and be kept whitewashed or coated with slacked lime. Defilement of the ground in and about the camp is absolutely prohibited. At night each latrine will be lighted by a lantern.

Scrupulous cleanliness of everything pertaining to the mess will be maintained. Cooks must be clean and neat in person. Food will be protected from flies by wire or cotton screening or by covering with clean cloths.

Company commanders will require their men to wash their hands before eating.

A box frame, filled with stones, will be sunk beneath each water tap to take up the overflow.

A bench for wash basins will be placed at a convenient point near each company water tap.

All water on the manoeuver grounds, except that piped to the camp, should be regarded as unsafe for drinking purposes, unless a sign placed nearby indicates its purity.

Manure, camp wastes and sweepings of all kinds will be promptly removed and disposed of.

VII. An assignment of drill and exercise areas for organizations will be made by the Division Comander upon arrival of organizations at camp.

VIII. The following officers of the Medical Department, and the number of enlisted men detailed below from the Hospital Corps of the several organizations, will report to the Chief Surgeon of the Division immediately upon arrival in camp, for duty at the Field Hospital to be established:

WILLIAM H. HORSTMANN COMPANY, PHILADELPHIA

This concern has had a successful business career for nearly a century, and during that period has furnished and fitted out a large percentage of the Army, Navy, Marine and other Officers of the Government Service; likewise the National Guard and Organized Militia of the several States, as well as many of the time-honored Independent Companies throughout the country. Their Uniform and Equipment Departments have recently been very much enlarged, the facilities for showing goods greatly improved, while the Manufacturing Departments have been brought up to the highest standard of efficiency.. Captain George Eiler, Jr., National Guard of Pennsylvania, who for many years was one of the successful Company Commanders in the time-honored First Infantry, is the General Manager and one of the Directors of the Company. You are cordially invited to visit this establishment, which will prove interesting and instructive.

First Lieutenant Frederick O. Waage, assigned to First Infantry.

First Lieutenant William H. Clewell, assigned to Eighth Infantry.

Second Lieutenant Thomas G. Aller, assigned to Second Infantry.

Second Infantry, 1 sergeant and 3 privates.
Third Infantry, 1 sergeant and 3 privates.

The above details are for the whole period of camp, and the men will be quartered and subsisted at the Field Hospital.

The Field Hospital will be erected by the Quartermaster's Department.

Details from regimental, medical and hospital corps detachments made for instruction at the Field Hospital will report at the Field Hospital at 8 A. M. daily, except Sunday.

IX. An inspection for ball cartridges will be made by company commanders before each exercise under arms, and a report of the result of such inspection will be at once made to the observer on duty with the organization. The finding of ball ammunition in the possession of any individual or organizaztion will be made the subject of a special report to these headquarters.

X. Organization commanders will see that their commands are provided with the haversack ration required for use the third forenoon of their camp.

XI. Except when consolidated for ceremonies, company musicians will remain in their companies, taking part therewith in all drills and exercises.

Captain HENRY H. DOAN, Medical Corps

For the first time in the history of the Division, the organized militia will have but few visitors at its camp this year. This condition is due to the fact that the troops will not spend a Sunday, as heretofore, under canvas. They will leave for the field on one Sunday and return on the following. The new move is an excellent one and deserving of commendation, as it gives the troops six full days for work, and the one day, formerly given over to the entertainment, will be omitted. The camp at Gettysburg will be known as Camp Edwin S. Stuart, in honor of the much esteemed former Governor of the State.

General Hulings is being congratulated, and with good cause, for the successful termination of the first period of the joint manoeuvers of the organized militia and troops from the regular establishment at Mt. Gretna. The Second Brigade, consisting of the Tenth, Sixteenth and Eighteenth Regiments of Infantry, participated for the first time in a joint manoeuvre camp of instruction. The problems were worked out to the satisfaction of the army officers present, who as usual were well impressed with the Pennsylvania Guardsmen. The hot spell was at its height during the time of the camp, but it was a remarkable showing that while a few were overcome by the torrid conditions, yet nothing of a serious nature happened. Without doubt, the field hospital did excellent work in attending to the heat cases, and the system of medical supervision is deserving of the highest praise. The sanitary conditions of the Sixteenth Pennsylvania were, as usual, of the best type, and the attention of the regulars was called to the provisions made to safeguard the health of the militiamen. The sanitary conditions of the camps of the Tenth and Eighteenth Pennsylvania were also good. All told, the tour of duty has been a great success.

Major General Dougherty can well be congratulated upon the completion of his handsome new home on the banks of the Susquehanna river overlooking the beautiful Wyoming Valley. The house is a magnificent dwelling, with splendid exterior, and equipped along most modern lines. The home is of colonial architecture, constructed with a view to both substantiability and elegance. It is 44 feet wide by 70 feet depth and has three stories. The interior is finished in mahogany, oak and chestnut, with hardwood flooring throughout. The home suggests comfort in every detail and is ideal in every respect. It was built by the well known firm of John Curtis & Co., Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

The accompanying photograph shows the members of the Petty Officers' Association of Divisions A and B, Naval Force of Pennsylvania, an organization formed for the purpose of fostering a friendly spirit between the non-commissioned officers of the Reserve stationed in Philadelphia, and of enabling them to discuss various topics of interest to the members of this particular branch of the National Guard. Meetings are held bi-monthly at headquarters, 314 Parkway Building. The present officers are: William Shute, Boatswain's Mate, First-class, President, and Herbert D. Glass, Chief Machinist's Mate, Secretary and Treasurer.

NOTES

Several changes in the Naval Force of the Western Division are expected owing to removals of officers on account of professional duties. Captain Morrison is confident, however, that with the fine material which he has held in reserve that the force will be in no way impaired by the prospective retirements.

Captain Thomas L. Kane, formerly of Company E, Sixteenth Infantry, has been transferred to the Medical Corps. Surgeon General Joseph K. Weaver has given his approval to the transfer. Captain Kane is a physician of standing in the northwestern section of the State, and is expected to sustain his record of proficiency as a company commander was one of the very best in the Guard.

Much interest has been manifested by the citizens of Greensburg in the excellent showing made by the team of the Tenth Regiment in the recent State matches. The trophies won have been on exhibition in one of the leading department stores of the city and the men of the team have been lionized by the residents of the Westmoreland county seat.

Guardsmen of Pennsylvania and New York are much interested in a small joint manoeuvre, which is being arranged by Lieutenant Colonel Burns, of the Sixteenth Infantry, between Company C, of that command, Captain Schoonmaker, and Company I, of the Third New York, Captain Newell. The companies are stationed respectively at Bradford, Pa., and Olean, N. Y., within a short distance of each other. The companies have fraternized several times together, notably in competitive rifle matches at Rock City, where it is expected the joint manoeuvre will take place.

Great progress is being made towards the completion of the new State Armory at Bradford, which will be occupied by Company C, Sixteenth Infantry. Captain F. P. Schoonmaker is planning to make the dedication of the Armory a great event in the history of Bradford and it is expected that Governor Tener and the members of his staff will participate in the exercises. Companies E, H, and I, of the Sixteenth Infantry, and Company I, of the Third New York, will be invited to be present.

Through the courtesy of Major Charles D. Rhoades, Ordnance Officer of the Fourth Brigade, we are enabled to give the individual scores of the Regimental teams in the recent competition for the "Fuller Trophy."

Photographs of the Instruction and Rifle Camps, in this issue, are by Harpel, Lebanon, Pa.

NEW DRILL REGULATIONS FOR THE NAVY.

The "Landing Force and Small Arms Instructions, 1912," recently published by the Navy Department, will soon be issued to the fleet, and will create several notable changes in the manner of drilling the bluejackets. The Manual of Guard-mounting and Guard-duty is taken from U. S. Army publications with certain omissions and necessary changes. The Extended Order and Combat is copied from the Infantry Drill Regulations, U. S. Army, 1911. The Infantry Drill Regulations, U. S. Army, 1911, have been modified in several instances rendered necessary by naval conditions. All the principals of the Army Drill Regulations have been followed except that no interval is left between the files in ranks, because of the restricted space on board ship. The light touch of the elbows is preserved, which makes the distance between ranks 36 inches.

Changes in the Navy Manual of Arms and the facings, and some other minor details, not essential to practical uniformity in co-operating with the army, have been avoided for manifest reasons.

The first edition of this book, published in 1905, was very carefully prepared with special attention to the condition and needs of the Navy; and the principle was then established that the Navy should follow the Army in all fighting formations and other strictly practical and important matters, but that frequent changes in trivial things, such as the facing, the manual of arms, etc., should be avoided. To use the words of the Army Regulations, "Quibbling over the minutiae of form is indicative of a failure to grasp the spirit."

Several copies of the 1912 edition have been obtained by the officers of the Naval Force of Pennsylvania, from Annapolis, (where the new regulations have been in force for a little over a month), and the enlisted men are now being instructed in the changes from the old system.

Sketching by company classes of selected non-commissioned officers and privates under Company Second Lieutenants or Battalion Adjutants.

Cavalry—Dismounted attack of a position. Tactical ride. Subject—Outposts and reconnaissance.

Artillery—Cannoneer instruction. Riding instruction. Instruction in care of harness and guns.

Engineers—Continuation of forenoon's work.

Saturday, July 27th—Sixth day of camp of all organizations except the Third Brigade, Cavalry, Co. A. Engineers, Fourth Brigade and Artillery and the fifth day of the Third Brigade, Cavalry, Co. A Engineers and the fourth day of the Fourth Brigade and Artillery.

Forenoon and afternoon. All arms. Division problem.

Following the Division Problem the Cavalry will have a problem—A raiding party.

XIV. A detailed program of instruction, prepared for the sanitary troops and Signal Corps by an officer designated from these headquarters will, when approved by the Division Commander, be followed.

XV. The greatest care must be taken by officers and men to avoid damage to private property. Officers and non-commissioned officers will be held responsible for wanton damage permitted in their presence. In all cases of depredation or damage of a minor character, a board of officers will be appointed by the commanding officer of each organization to assess damages, and same will be immediately reported to the Provost Marshal of the division. Such repairs as can be, must be made immediately. It is also requested that instructors or observers, having knowledge of wanton damages, do all in their power to aid in the investigation. Care will be exercised to avoid frightening loose stock or animals being driven along roads, and the passage of civilians along roads will not be unnecessarily delayed during an exercise. If during an exercise it is found necessary to lay down a fence the number of panels removed will be the least possible consistent with the circumstances of the case.

XVI. It is expected that a sufficient number of U. S. Army officers will be detailed to this camp to permit the assignment of at least one instructor to each brigade headquarters, regimental organization, squadron of cavalry, artillery, engineers, signal corps and sanitary troops. When such assignment is made, the instructors will be directed to report to the commanders of the several organizations, and will be quartered by such organizations.

By command of Major General Dougherty,

CHARLES S. FARNSWORTH,
Major 16th U. S. Infantry, Chief of Staff.

Official:

WILLIAM SHARPE, Adjutant General.

THE MINUS SIGN?

A young man who had earned a good salary for seven or eight years, but who was obliged to borrow the money for his bridal tour. He began life under the Minus Sign—a bad beginning. The best beginning is the early beginning. If the boys of to-day who will be the men of to-morrow, will begin EARLY, and invest some of their pocket money in a Savings Account, they will turn the Minus Sign into a satisfying surplus.
